Do not provide your spouse's name below. All pension benefits on death are payable to your spouse. Your spouse may complete a pre-retirement spousal waiver, which will allow you to designate another pension beneficiary. Contact the Benefits Centre for the waiver forms should you want to proceed with this process. If your spouse signs a pre-retirement spousal waiver, predeceases you, or if you do not have a spouse, all pension benefits on death are payable to your designated beneficiary. If you do not have a designated beneficiary on file or your designated beneficiary predeceases you, all pension benefits on death are payable to your estate. If your pension beneficiary is under age 18, you should consider naming a trustee (see Step 3). If you have more than five pension beneficiaries, attach a separate sheet with the applicable information. If you are required to appoint a specific beneficiary under a court order or other domestic contract, you must provide such an order or contract to the Pension Plan upon execution. The Pension Plan cannot comply with any order or contract it has not received and will not be responsible if a pension benefit was paid in conflict with a court order or domestic contract that has not been received.
